The Friends of Jerusalem Mill

When you become a member, we consider you a "Friend" of the Village. You are more than a visitor. You are a partner in our work, ensuring that our mission is fulfilled. You are a champion of museums, defending the cultural importance of museums as learning resources and places to find meaning, pleasure, relevance, and inspiration. Jerusalem Mill Village is a recognized living history museum that collects, preserves, exhibits and interprets several centuries of Maryland culture and heritage. The unique open-air setting also includes examples of trades and handiwork to the period. The museum promotes education for all ages and is a venue for events that serve and provide enjoyment for visitors and the local community.

Over the course of the last few years, the Friends have worked tirelessly to restore the original home of the Lee family in Jerusalem Village. Work is nearly complete.

Soon an archaeological study will commence, upon its completion the late 18th century kitchen will be restored.

The front parlor has been converted into an Art Gallery and has featured paintings from nationally renowned artists and a pottery sculpture artist.

The dining room has hosted a number of unique performances, teas and dinners.

Work will begin in the coming months to rebuild the Percy Lee Bank barn, once completed will be available to rent for special events and will be home for many of the Friends special events.

Your membership dues as well as your annual donations to The Friends of Jerusalem Mill make it possible for this invaluable resource and its programming to survive and flourish.
